ABOUT MALLORY'S ARMY

Mallory's Army is a 501.c.3 charitable foundation that is solution driven to end bullying. We do this by empowering children to have empathy and be KIND in their everyday actions, educating parents, and bringing enrichment programs to schools and administrations.

ABOUT MALLORY

Mallory Rose Grossman, 12, of Rockaway NJ was an avid gymnast, cheerleader and lover of all things outdoors. Her character at the young age of 12 made her more inspirational than the average adult. She was a compassionate, selfless and KIND loving old soul. She enjoyed competitive gymnastics and cheerleading, teaching her determination and humility at a very young age. She loved summer weekends at her favorite campground with her family where she would admire the simple pleasures of nature. Her love for her friends and family was beyond measure. She had a heart of gold and when she found out that children with cancer couldn't go to summer camp for free her entrepreneurial wheels began to turn. She was a lover of arts and would make jewelry so she could raise money for her favorite charity, Camp Good Days. Her smile and giggle could light up a room instantly. With so much life ahead the unimaginable occurred. Sadly, on June 14th 2017, Mallory took her own life because of horrific bullying. Mallory was a unique and innocent girl that taught us all a valuable lesson about life in her short time than many will encounter in a lifetime.
